The square on a side of a triangle is greater than, equal to, or less than, the sum of the squares on the other two sides, according as the angle contained by those sides is obtuse, right, or acute. The difference in the case of inequality is twice the rectangle contained by one of the two sides and the projection on it of the other.

Loci.

The locus of a point which is equidistant from two fixed points is the perpendicular bisector of the straight line joining the two fixed points.

The locus of a point which is equidistant from two intersecting straight lines consists of the pair of straight lines which bisect the angles between the two given lines.

The Circle.

A straight line drawn from the centre of a circle to bisect a chord which is not the diameter is at right angles to the chord; conversely the perpendicular to a chord from the centre bisects the chord.

There is one circle, and one only, which passes through three given points not in a straight line.

In equal circles (or in the same circle), (i) if two arcs subtend equal angles at the centres, they are equal; (ii) conversely if two arcs are equal, they subtend equal angles at the centres.

In equal circles (or in the same circle), (i) if two chords are equal, they cut off equal arcs; (ii) conversely, if two arcs are equal, the chords of the arcs are equal.

Equal chords in a circle are equidistant from the centre; and the converse.

The tangents at any point of a circle and the radius through the point are perpendicular to one another.

If two circles touch, the point of contact lies on the straight line through the centres.

The angle which an arc of a circle subtends at the centre is double that which it subtends at any point on the remaining part of the circumference.

Angles in the same segment of a circle are equal; and if the line joining two points subtends equal angles at two other points on the same side of it, the four points lie on a circle.

The angle in a semi-circle is a right angle, the angle in a segment greater than a semi-circle is less than a right angle and the angle in a segment less than a semi-circle is greater than a right angle.

The opposite angles of any quadrilateral inscribed in a circle are supplementary; and the converse.

If a straight line touches a circle and from the point of contact a chord be drawn, the angles which this chord makes with the tangent are equal to the angles in the alternate segments.

If two chords of a circle intersect either inside or outside the circle, the rectangle contained by the parts of the one is equal to the rectangle contained by the parts of the other.

Proportion: similar Triangles.

If a straight line is drawn parallel to one side of a triangle, the other two sides are divided proportionally; and the converse.

If two triangles are equiangular, their corresponding sides are proportional; and the converse.

If two triangles have one angle of the one equal to one angle of the other and the sides about these angles proportional, the triangles are similar.

In any right-angled triangle the perpendicular to the hypotenuse from opposite vertex divides the triangle into two triangles which are similar to the whole triangle and to each other.

The internal bisector of an angle of a triangle divides the opposite side internally in the ratio of the sides containing the angle and likewise the external bisector externally.

The ratio of the areas of similar triangles is equal to the ratio of the squares on corresponding sides.

APPENDIX III.

EXTRACT FROM THE REGULATIONS AS TO THE PHYSICAL EXAMINATION OF CANDIDATES FOR APPOINTMENTS UNDER THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

[These Regulations are published for the convenience of candidates and in order to enable them to ascertain the probability of their coming up to the required physical standard. But it must be clearly understood that the Secretary of State reserves to himself an absolute discretion to reject as unfit any candidate whom he may consider, after hearing the opinion of his medical advisers, to be physically disqualified for the public service; and that his discretion is in no respect limited by these Regulations.]

[N.B.—As regards candidates who have been wounded, a candidate who has lost one hand, fore arm, or arm, or one leg below the knee might be accepted, but the following classes of wounds must be regarded as disqualification, viz., (1) Injury to head; (2) Loss of an eye; (2) Loss of leg above the knee through the thigh.]

General physical requirements.

I. A candidate must be in good mental and bodily health, and free from any physical defect likely to interfere with efficient performance of duty.

II. To the examination of candidates the Medical Board will apply the following table of correlation of age, height and chest girth:—

Age.	Height without shoes.	Chest.
		Girth when expanded.	Range of expansion.
	INCHES. INCHES.	INCHES.	INCHES.
20 to 20..	62½ and under 63	35	2
	63 „ 66	35	4
	66 „ 70	35½	3
	70 „ 72	35	2
	72 and upwards	36½	2½
21 and upwards.	62½ and under 65	35	3
	65 „ 68	35½	3
	68 „ 70	36	3
	70 „ 72	36½	2½
	72 and upwards	37	2½

III. Measurement of height.—A minimum height of 5 feet 6 inches is imposed. The candidate will be placed against the standard with his feet together, and the weight thrown on the heels, and not on the toes or outside of the feet. He will stand erect without rigidity, and with the heels, calves, buttocks, and shoulders touching the standard; the chin will be depressed to bring the vertex of the head level under the horizontal bar, and the height will be noted in parts of an inch to eighths.

IV. Measurement of chest.—The candidate will be made to stand erect with his feet together, and to raise his hands above his head. The tape will be carefully adjusted round the chest, with its posterior upper edge touching the inferior angles of the shoulder blades, and its anterior lower edge the upper part of the nipples. The arms will then be lowered to hang loosely by the side, and care will be taken that the shoulders are not thrown upwards or backwards so as to displace the tape. The candidate will then be directed to empty his chest of air as much as is possible. This is best done by continuous whistling with the lips as long as sound can be produced. The tape is carefully gathered in during the process, and when the minimum measurement is reached it is recorded. The candidate will then be directed to inflate his chest to its utmost capacity. The maximum measurement will likewise be noted. The girth with the chest fully expanded and the range of expansion between the minimum and maximum will then be recorded.

V. The hearing must be good.

VI. The speech without impediment.

VII. The teeth in good order, i.e., decayed or broken teeth must be properly stopped or crowned, and deficient teeth replaced by artificial teeth, where necessary for effective mastication.

VIII. The chest must be well formed, the lungs and heart sound.

IX. Rupture, hydrocele, varicocele, varicose veins in a severe degree, or other condition likely to cause inefficiency will disqualify a candidate, unless such condition is cured by operation.

X. The limbs, feet, and toes must be well formed and developed, with free and perfect motion of all the joints.

XI. A candidate must have no congenital malformation or defect likely to interfere with efficiency.

XII. A candidate must not be the subject of chronic skin disease.

XIII. Evidence of previous acute or chronic disease pointing to an impaired constitution will disqualify.

Regulations as to Standard of Vision for the Indian Police Force.

1. Squint, or any morbid condition of the eyes or of the lids of either eye liable to the risk of aggravation or recurrence, will cause the rejection of the candidate.

2. The examination for determining the acuteness of vision includes two tests: one for distant, the other for near vision. The Army Test Types will be used for the test for distant vision, without glasses, except where otherwise stated below, at a distance of 20 feet; and Snellen's Optotypi for the test for near vision, without glasses, at any distance selected by the candidate. Each eye will be examined separately, and the lids must be kept wide open during the test. The candidate must be able to read the tests without hesitation in ordinary daylight.

3. A candidate possessing acuteness of vision, according to one of the standards hereon laid down, will not be rejected on account of an error of refraction, provided that the error of refraction, in the following cases, does not exceed the limits mentioned, viz.:—

(a) In the case of myopia, that the error of refraction does not exceed 2·5 D.; (b) that any correction for astigmatism does not exceed 2·5 D.; and, in the case of myopic astigmatism, that the total error of refraction does not exceed 2·5 D.

4. Subject to the foregoing conditions, the standards of the minimum acuteness of vision with which a candidate will be accepted are as follows:—

Standard I.

Distant vision.	V = 6/6.	V = 6/6.
Near vision.	Reads 0·6.	Reads 0·6.

Standard II.

	Better Eye.	Worse Eye.
Distant vision.	V = 6/6.	V, without glasses = not below 6/60; and, after correction with glasses = not below 6/24.
Near vision.	Reads 0·5.	Reads 1.

Standard III.

	Better Eye.	Worse Eye.
Distant vision.	V, without glasses = not below 6/24; and, after correction with glasses = not below 6/6.	V, without glasses = not below 6/24; and, after correction with glasses = not below 6/12.
Near vision = reads 0·8.		Reads 1.

The existence of imperfection of colour sense does not necessarily disqualify, but will be noted on the candidate's papers.

N.B.—In all other respects, candidates must come up to the standard of physical requirements laid down for candidates for commissions in the army

The rules are subject to alteration, and any disputed question must be decided with reference to the authorized text of the Fundamental Rules in the case of leave and of the Civil Service Regulations in the case of pension for the time being.]

ORDINARY LEAVE RULES FOR OFFICERS POSSESSING NON-EUROPEAN DOMICILE.

Leave is calculated in terms of "leave on average pay" and the amount of "leave on average pay" for which an officer is eligible is $\frac{1}{11}$th of the period spent on duty.

Subject to certain maxima and minima, an officer may draw, at his option, leave salary equal to the average pay of the last twelve months of completed duty or to half such average pay. All leave on average and half the period on half average pay is counted against the leave earned. An officer may take his leave on average pay, on half average pay, or on a combination of the two, provided that this continuous absence from duty does not exceed twenty-eight months, and that the amount of leave taken on average pay does not exceed four months at any one time. The maximum amount of leave admissible during an officer's career is the equivalent of leave on average pay for 2½ years plus $\frac{1}{11}$th of the period spent on duty, of which not more than $\frac{1}{11}$th of the period spent on duty may actually consist of leave on average pay.

III—GENERAL.

Leave not due and carrying half average pay may be granted on medical certificate, and within

* The number of appointments above the time-scale held by officers of the Indian Police Service will not exceed 10 per cent of the cadre.

† These appointments are not set apart exclusively for members of the Police Department, and the Government reserves discretion to fill them by the selection of any officers who are considered best fitted for them, whether in the department or outside it.

certain limits, for other reasons, but an officer will not again commence to earn leave until the expiration of a fresh period of duty sufficient to earn a credit of leave equal to the leave he has taken before it was due. After twenty-eight months' absence from duty an officer of the Indian Imperial Police Service draws quarter average salary subject to certain maxima and minima.

Leave salary is ordinarily payable in rupees if the officer spends his leave in India or Ceylon, and in sterling if he spends it elsewhere. The rate of exchange for the conversion of leave salary is prescribed from time to time by the Secretary of State. At present it is the current rate of exchange subject to a minimum of 1*s.* 4*d.* during the first four months of leave and 1*s.* 6*d.* during the remainder.

It should be noted that leave can never be claimed as of right, but is given or refused at the discretion of Government.

3. Retirement is ordinarily required at the age of 55 years, but for special reasons an officer is sometimes retained after attaining that age.

The right reserved to Government under this rule will not be exercised except when it is in the public interest to dispense with the further services of an officer. Government also reserves the general power to reduce the pension ordinarily admissible in all cases where an officer's service has been unsatisfactory.

Additional Pension.

8. The Government of India have classified certain high appointments into two grades, the lower comprising those posts which involve high but intermediate responsibility, the higher consisting of those which require a marked degree of independent, administrative and professional capacity. Officers who have held appointments classed in the upper grade will be entitled to an additional pension at the rate of Rs. 500 for each completed year of effective service rendered in any appointment included in that grade, provided that no officer may draw an additional pension in excess of Rs. 2,500 in respect of service rendered in the lower and upper grades combined or in the upper grade alone.

No. 1074.—Under section 67 of the Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act, 1923 (Madras Act I of 1925), the Government make the following rules :—

Rules for the election of Presidents and Vice-Presidents of Temple Committees.

I. The election of a President or Vice-President of a Temple Committee shall be held at a meeting of the Committee specially convened for the purpose.

Such meeting shall be convened on or within fifteen days of

(a) the date of occurrence of the vacancy ; or

(b) the date of the final constitution or reconstitution of the Committee if the Committee is constituted or reconstituted for the first time under the Act.

Notice of the place in which and the date and hour at which the meeting shall be held shall be given at least seven clear days previous to the date fixed for the meeting.

II. A candidate for the office of President or Vice-President shall be proposed by one member and seconded by another. A proposer or seconder of the candidature of one member shall not be entitled to propose or second the candidature of another member. The names of all the candidates duly proposed and seconded shall be read out by the president or the presiding member.

III. (1) If there is only one candidate duly proposed and seconded, there shall be no ballot and he shall be declared to be elected.

(2) If there are two or more candidates the votes of the members present at the meeting shall be taken.

IV. Every member wishing to vote shall be supplied with a voting paper on which the names of all the members of the Committee shall be printed or typed in the following form :—

	Names.	Vote.

Before the voting paper is handed over to the voter, the president or presiding member shall score out therefrom the names of members of the Committee who have not been duly proposed and seconded as candidates. He shall also sign his name in full on the reverse of the voting paper. The voter shall then proceed to the place appointed for the purpose and there place a mark (×) against the name of the candidate for whom he wishes to vote. He shall then fold up the slip so as to conceal his vote and deposit the same in a ballot box placed in the view of the president or presiding member and so constructed that the paper may be placed therein but not extracted therefrom without the box being opened. The president or the presiding member shall then open the box and count the votes in the presence of the members and declare the result of the election in accordance with the following instructions :—

(i) If there are only two candidates, the one who secures the larger number of votes shall be declared to be elected. In the event of there being an equality of votes between the two candidates, the president or the presiding member shall draw lots in the presence of members and the person whose name is first drawn shall be declared to be elected ; and

(ii) if there are more than two candidates the one who obtains the fewest votes shall be eliminated and the votes taken again. If there is an equality of votes among all the candidates, or if two or more candidates lowest on the list have obtained an equal number of votes, the president or the presiding member shall ascertain by casting lots in the presence of the members which of them shall be eliminated. The elimination shall be repeated until two candidates only are left, when votes shall be taken for the last time and the candidate who secures the larger number of votes shall be considered to have been elected. In the event of there being an equality of votes at the final stage between two remaining candidates, the president or the presiding member shall draw lots in the presence of the members and the person whose name is first drawn shall be declared to be elected.

V. No candidate whose name has been duly proposed and seconded shall take part in a ballot but a candidate may withdraw at any stage, and after so withdrawing he may take part in any ballot. Similarly a candidate who has been eliminated at any stage under rule III (ii) may take part in any ballot at subsequent stages.

VI. Any voting paper which contains the signature of any of the voting members or on which the mark (×) is placed against more than one name or is so placed as to render it doubtful to which candidate such mark is intended to apply shall be invalid.

VII. Immediately after the meeting the president or presiding member shall forward the name of the person elected as President or Vice-President of the Committee through the President of the Board for publication in the Fort St. George Gazette.

VIII. (1) The president or presiding member shall then seal up in separate packets the counted and rejected papers pertaining to each ballot and note on each packet the number of papers it contains and the election and ballot to which it relates.

(2) These packets shall not be opened and their contents shall not be inspected or produced except under the orders of an election commissioner.

(3) The packets shall be retained in safe custody in the office of the Committee for a year and shall then unless otherwise directed by the orders of an election commissioner be destroyed.

SPECIFICATION.

General.—1. The Executive Engineer shall have full powers and authority to issue such instructions as to the mode of procedure and carrying out the work as he may deem necessary for the guidance of the contractor and the contractor shall be bound by such instructions of the Executive Engineer or any person or persons authorized by the Executive Engineer to give instructions. The contractor, shall during working hours, have an authorized agent on the work, who shall be in possession of a complete set of authorized plans and specifications.

2. An order book shall be maintained on the work which shall be inspected daily by the contractor or his authorized agent who shall initial the book in token of having noted the orders written therein.

3. The contractor shall grant ordinary receipts to the officer in charge of the works for all articles received by him in good condition. These receipts shall be in duplicate and shall be signed by the contractor or his agent (duly authorized in writing to grant receipts on behalf of the contractor).

4. The duplicate receipt should be signed by the officer in charge and returned to the contractor or his agent in token of acceptance of the correctness of the receipt.

5. When articles are received by the contractor in a damaged condition the receipt of these articles shall be entered in red ink on a special receipt with a note of the extent of the damage. As in the case of ordinary receipts, the duplicate receipt for damaged articles when signed by the officer in charge will be returned to the contractor.

6. The contractor is required to provide all labour, plant, tools, etc., necessary for carrying out the works tendered by him.

7. The pipes, valves, specials, girders, cement and paint will be supplied by the department. The cost of the cement and paint will be recovered from the contractor's bill at prices noted below.

Cement at Rs. 3-14-0 per c.ft. and paint at As. 6 per lb.

8. The contractor shall not deposit materials on any site which shall seriously inconvenience the public and the manner of deposit shall be approved of from time to time by the officer in charge of the work. The officer in charge may require the contractor to remove any materials which are considered by him to be a danger or inconvenience to the public, or cause them to be removed at the contractor's cost.

9. The contractor shall be responsible for the safe custody of all materials deposited on sites adjacent to their position in the work, subject, however to the directions and control of the officer in charge for the purpose of inspection, weighing or testing of the pipes, stores, etc., as he shall see fit so to do.

10. Any material pronounced to be inferior or worthless shall be removed at the contractor's expense from the site of work within 24 hours after written intimation to that effect has been given by the Executive Engineer.

11. Any pipe, special, valve or other articles which shall have been handed over to the contractor in good condition and which thereafter shall be damaged before or after being placed in the work shall be paid for by the contractor at the rate originally paid for such articles plus 10 per cent in excess of such rate. Should the spigot end of any pipe be cracked or broken after it has been received by him, the contractor shall (if the cracked portion be less than half the length of the pipe) cut the damaged part off at his cost and pay for the actual length cut off plus 10 per cent extra; always provided the remaining length of pipe is usable with the sanction of the Executive Engineer, otherwise the cost of the whole pipe shall be recovered plus 10 per cent extra. Should the damage be at a socket and or reach to half length from the spigot end, or should a special or a valve be damaged, then the contractor shall pay the cost of the whole pipe, special or valve plus 10 per cent extra and the pipe, special or valve shall become the contractor's property.

12. For works detail specifications of which do not find place hereunder, the contractor shall, before commencement of such works, obtain written instructions from the Executive Engineer for proceeding with such works and the contractor shall strictly adhere to such written instructions of the Executive Engineer for carrying out such works.

13. The contractor shall at all times offer facilities to other contractors or Government labourers employed on special works in connexion with the building by allowing them to use his scaffoldings, galleries, etc., which are erected on the work for his own use.

Clearing of site.—1. The area described and shown as the plan to be cleared of all obstructions, loose stones and materials, rubbish of all kinds, as well as all trees and brush wood, all roots being entirely grubbed up. All wood and material from clearing to be the property of the Government and to be disposed of as the Executive Engineer may direct.

2 The products of the clearing to be stacked in such place and manner as may be ordered by the Executive Engineer or his representatives and the ground left in a perfectly clean condition.

3. All holes or hollows, whether originally existing or produced by digging up roots, shall be carefully filled up with earth, well rammed and levelled off, as may be directed.

Store shed.—The contractor shall provide a covered store shed at an approved site where articles such as valves and such other small stores may safely be deposited until wanted for use. He shall also provide suitable sheds at an approved site for storing building materials such as slacked lime, surki, cement, etc.

Supply of water.—The contractor shall supply at his cost all the water required for the work.

Foundations.—1. Foundation trenches shall be taken out to the exact width of the lowest step of the footings; the sides shall be left plumb where the nature of the soil admits of it. But they must be sloped down, or shored up carefully where the soil appears treacherous or likely to fall in, and where necessary they shall be benched, so that the filling in may rest everywhere on horizontal surfaces.

2 All foundation trenches must be taken down to firm hard soil, the incompressible quality of which when subject to moisture and probable thickness, should be ascertained before the foundations are passed.

3. Where practicable, the foundations shall be taken out at the same level throughout. If pit holes occur, they will either be dug out square and filled with concrete, or if too deep for this mode of treatment, shall be carefully arched over after being well filled and rammed.

4. When old walls and foundations are met with, they shall be dug out to the level of the trenches. Old wells occurring within the site of foundations shall be strongly domed over, after being first cleared of all loose material and subsequently well filled and rammed.

5. The bottom of foundation pits shall be dressed level in all directions, and before any concrete or masonry is put in, shall be well watered and thoroughly rammed. No filling will be allowed in thus bringing the foundation soles to proper level throughout.

6. In preparing a bed for foundations on rock, thickness of the stratum of the rock should first be ascertained and next it should be properly dressed to receive foundation course, the sloping portions being terraced with hand tools to receive horizontal footings.

7. The foundations must be approved and passed by the Executive Engineer before constructive works are commenced.

8. The contractor's rate shall include the cost of all shoring, pumping, dredging, bailing out, or draining; and the excavations shall be kept free of water while the masonry is in progress in such manner as the Executive Engineer may direct.

9 All foundation pits must be refilled to the original surface of the ground with approved material, well watered and rammed.

10. No material excavated from foundation trenches, of whatever kind it may be, is to be placed nearer than four feet from the outer edges of the excavation.

11. The rate paid will include excavating first yard in depth and depositing on bank up to two yards high with a lead of not more than twenty yards. The rate will also include filling in again round the foundation walls, ramming and securing in the ordinary manner. The measurement of the work shall be the exact length and width of the lowest step of the footing according to the drawing or Executive Engineer's instructions and the depth shall be measured vertically.

12. In filling foundation pits, the earth shall be laid in regular layers not exceeding six inches in thickness and shall be well watered and rammed.

13. Foundation pits and similar excavations near all frequented places shall be strongly fenced and where necessary shall be marked at night by red lights or watch-fires under charge of watchmen.

Aggregate.—The metal for concrete shall be broken to pass through a 1½" ring and be refused by a ¼" sieve. This means that the maximum dimension or diagonal must not exceed 1¼". Particles smaller than ¼" and flat chips should be screened out and should not be used in the aggregate. The stone shall be clean, hard, of cubical structure as far as possible and free from all impurities. The aggregate shall be washed and all impurities, muddy particles and fine dust removed.

Sand.—The sand used in mortar and concrete shall be coarse in texture, clean, sharp and gritty to the touch. It shall be carefully freed by washing and screening through a ¼" mesh screen from saltpetre, earth and other impurities. Fine drift sand or such as may be mixed with the salt should on no account be used.

Surki.—1. Surki should always be made from well-burnt bricks by grinding or pounding them.

2. The ponded brick must be perfectly clean, free from any admixture of foreign matter, and must be passed through a screen of 144 meshes to the square inch, before being mixed with the lime.

Lime.—1. The kunkur shall be broken to a uniform size not exceeding one and a half inch cube carefully freed from all impurities and burnt with a sufficiency of coal, charcoal, wood, or screened cinder.

2. The lime shall be properly slaked with the water not less than one week or more than three weeks before use. The slaking shall be carried out on a slaking platform made either of concrete, rubble or burnt brick setin mortar. The lime, after slaking, shall be screened through ¼" screens and the refuse shall be rejected if over-burnt. If under-burnt, it may be used for placing on the top of the kiln. If the slaked lime is stored, it must be properly covered over. As a rule, the lime shall be used within fourteen days after removal from the kiln.

3. If, on testing the lime to be used with hydrochloric acid, a residue of more than 10 per cent by weight is found, the Executive Engineer or his representatives will order the removal of the whole of the lime from which the sample is taken and if it is not removed within twenty-four hours, it shall be removed departmentally at the contractor's risk and cost.

Surki mortar.—1. Surki, lime and sand after having been screened separately shall be spread over a well-laid clean platform one over the other in the proportions of 1 : 1½ : 3. These should then be mixed dry three times over. The whole shall then be made into a paste by the addition of water, afterwards it shall be well ground in a mortar mill, each filling receiving not less than sixty turns of the mill or more if necessary to incorporate the ingredients thoroughly. The mortar shall in no case be deposited on the ground. It shall be used as soon as possible after it has been ground. It shall be kept damp in the shade or covered up till used, and if it has become hardened, it shall be considered unfit for use and should be removed from the work.

2. The mortar must be stirred continuously during the process of grinding particularly in the angles of the mill. Water may be added during the grinding as required, care being taken not to add more water than will bring the mixed materials to the consistency of a stiff paste. The mill must be paved with solid stone paving. The sides must be formed of bricks set in mortar and sides must be maintained in good order.

3. The Executive Engineer or his representative has the power to reject all the mortar which after a test with hydrochloric acid is found to contain a larger percentage of sand than that specified for any particular work.

4. It is of utmost importance that the stones to be imbedded in the mortar should be thoroughly soaked so that they cannot absorb the moisture from the mortar and also in order to remove the dust from their surfaces which would otherwise prevent the mortar from adhering.

5. Mortar should be used as stiff as it can be spread and the joints should always be well filled.

Concrete.—1. General.—Concrete shall consist of an aggregate of clean broken stone adhered by a matrix of either cement or lime mixed with sand in such proportions as the Executive Engineer shall order. The aggregate and the mortar shall be in such a ratio as the Executive Engineer shall specify.

2. The materials for concrete having been properly gauged, the materials forming the aggregate will be laid out on a clean platform floored with bricks, iron sheetings, etc., with even depth throughout and covered over by cement or lime mortar as the case may be in proper proportion and the whole turned over thrice in the dry state. The water shall be applied from a watering can with a rose and the ingredients shall be turned over under the spray so that each and every portion of the mixture may receive a due proportion of water.

3. When concrete is used in a trench full of water, it must not be shovelled in as the cement or lime will be washed out in its descent through the water but it must be lowered gently by means of a box or a basket.

4. No more concrete shall be mixed than can be laid in place and rammed the same day and when Portland cement is used it must be laid as it is mixed.

5. The concrete shall be laid in the work in layers not exceeding 6 inches in depth and shall be well rammed with heavy wooden or iron hammers. Concrete should on no account be rammed after it has commenced to set. The surface of each layer shall be well watered and scored with lines before another is placed over it so that the two may combine into one homogeneous whole. It will be well also to test the concrete from time to time by picking up small portion to make sure that a proper set has taken place. Concrete shall not be in any case thrown from a height so as to cause the heavier materials to fall to the bottom.

6. If the cement or mortar does not fill all the interstices between the stones and cream to the surface, the top of each layer is to be grouted with thin mortar before the next layer is spread.

7. The concrete shall be kept wet for at least seven days after it has been laid by means of a watering can with rose attached.

8. Unless otherwise specified, the rates tendered in the schedule for concrete are to include the cost of mixing, lifting, throwing, placing, ramming, watering, wheeling, planks, barrows, tools and all appliances required to complete the concrete in position.

Surki concrete.—For every 100 c. ft. of surki concrete the ingredients shall generally be of the following proportions:—

13⅓ c. ft. of surki, 20⅔ c. ft. of sand, 20 c. ft. of lime.	100 (net) c. ft. of aggregate.

Cement concrete.—1. For every 100 c. ft. of cement concrete the ingredients shall generally be of the following proportions:—

13⅓ c. ft. of cement, 40 c. ft. of sand.	100 (net) c. ft. of aggregate.

2. All the material including the cement to be mixed dry immediately before use. The volume of water required will probably be about half the volume of cement. The materials should on no account be mixed until the cement is added.

3. The cement concrete must be used well before the initial setting commences which varies from 20 minutes to 10 hours after being wetted, according to the property of the cement used and which has to be ascertained in each case. If to be kept more than the initial setting time after being mixed, great care shall be taken that the sand and the metal are thoroughly dried beforehand and that no water or wet reaches it.

Stone masonry.—1. General.—The stone to be used shall be taken from specified quarries and approved by the Executive Engineer.

2. The stone shall be hard, durable and tough and each stone must be laid in the work on its natural quarry bed.

3. The mortar to be used will be that specified by the Executive Engineer. The work is to be kept wet while in progress till the mortar is properly set. On Sundays and other holidays, the top of all unfinished masonry is to be kept flooded and labourers are to be employed for the purpose. Watering is to be done carefully so as not to wash the lime out of the joints.

4. All stone masonry built with lime surki or cement mortar shall be kept well watered.

5. Scaffolding shall be double, but the ends of poles should not be placed in the position of a header stone. The contractor's rate should include charges for scaffolding, watering and other works necessary to complete the masonry work.

6. All mouldings to be worked to templates cut out of sheet zinc. In all battering, retaining and breast walls, the beds of stone and the plane of the courses to be at right angles to the batter. Large flat stones are to be laid in all cases under the ends of girders, their dimensions being according to the approved plan.

7. Should the mortar perish, i.e., become dry white or powdery through neglect of watering, the work must be pulled down and rebuilt at the contractor's expense. Or should the contractor fail to water the work to the satisfaction of the officer in charge of the work, the latter may supply the requisite men to water the work properly and charge the cost to the contractor.

8. Where practicable, the whole of the masonry in any structure will be carried up at one uniform level throughout, but where breaks are unavoidable, the joint will be made in good long steps, so as to prevent cracks arising between the new and old work. All junctions of walls to be formed at the time walls are being built, and cross walls to be carefully bonded into the main walls. All masonry work shall be washed down on completion and all stains (lime or otherwise) removed from the face.

Cut-stone work.—1. The cut stones shall be dressed full or to template or as shown in working drawings. Exposed and bearing faces of girder stones shall be fine chisel-dressed, and remainder rough tooled to a flat surface and such stones shall be set and jointed, if necessary, in cement. Such joints shall be close and not more than ¼ inch thick. All visible angles and edges shall be free from unsightly chippings.

2. The stone shall be covered with rough planking during the progress of the work where exposed to damage.

3. All cut stone work shall be moulded or chamfered as may be ordered and the measurements thereof shall be taken over all projections and not immediately along the perimetral face.

4. All string courses and drip mouldings shall be moulded or chamfered as may be ordered. They shall tail at least 9 inches into the work with a fall bearing for at least 4 inches and shall be paid for at rate per running foot along the course.

Coursed rubble in surkhi mortar—First class.—1. The stone shall be laid in horizontal courses not less than 6 inches in height. A thick course should not be super-imposed on a thin course. All stones to be set full in mortar.

2. The face stones to be squared on all joints and beds. The beds to be hammer or chisel dressed true and square for at least 3 inches back from the face and the joints for at least 1½ inches. The face of the stones to be hammer dressed and bushing not to project more than 1½ inches.

3. No pinnings will be allowed on the face. All side joints shall be vertical and beds horizontal and no joint shall be more than ¾ inch in thickness.

4. No face stone shall be less in breadth than its height or shall tail into the work to a length less than its height and at least one-third of the stones shall tail into the work at least twice their height or in thick walls three times their height.

5. Through stones shall be inserted 5 or 6 feet apart in the clear in every course and shall run right through the wall when not more than 3 feet thick. When the work is more than 2 feet thick, a line of two or more headers or stones shall be laid from face to the back which shall overlap each other at least 6 inches.

6. Stones shall break joints at least half the height of the course.

7. The quoins which shall be of the same height as the course in which they occur shall be formed of header stones at least 1½ feet long laid lengthwise alternately along each face. They should be laid square on their beds, which should be fairly dressed to a depth of at least 4 inches.

8. The work on the interior face shall be precisely the same as on the exterior face, unless the work is to be plastered, in which case the side joints need not be vertical.

9. The interior of wall shall consist of flat bedded stones carefully laid on their proper beds and solidly bedded in mortar chips and spauls of stones being wedged in wherever necessary so as to avoid thick beds or joints of mortar, care being taken that no dry work or hollow spaces shall be left anywhere in the masonry.

10. The face work and backing shall be brought up evenly, but the backing should not be levelled up at each course by the use of chips.

Cement plaster half an inch thick.—1. All joints in the masonry are to be raked out to a depth of at least ½ inch and the wall to be washed with fresh water and to be thoroughly wetted for six hours before plastering is commenced.

2. 'Render' with a mortar of one part of Portland cement and two parts of fine sand half an inch thick, unless otherwise specified and roughen, but do not beat.

3. Float or 'set' with a thin coat of ⅛ inch of pure Portland cement and polish well immediately with a trowel or flat board.

4. The cement to be used within 20 to 30 minutes after it leaves the mixing board or mill.

5. The rate of each work to include all ladders, stages, scaffolding, etc., that may be required.

6. All mouldings shall be worked true to template and drawn neat, clean and level. All exposed angles and junctions and corners to be carefully finished.

7. Plaster shall be measured on length and height of walls, no deductions being made for openings or additions for returns and splits, the latter being considered equivalent to the former.

8. The cornices and mouldings to be paid for per running foot.

Painting—Priming coat.—1. The paint shall be supplied departmentally.

2. Steel or iron shall be primed with red lead and boiled linseed oil, all rust and mill scale being first removed.

3. Application.—The paint shall be applied by labour and with brushes which in each case shall be approved by the Executive Engineer. It shall be spread as smoothly and evenly as possible. To effect this, as soon as the whole or a convenient quantity of the work is covered, the brush should be passed over it in a direction contrary to that in which it is finally to be laid off; this is called 'crossing'. After 'crossing' it should be laid off in a direction contrary to the 'crossing'. The finished surface should be perfectly smooth and even and no brush marks should be visible. Every coat should be perfectly dry, rubbed down and passed by the Subdivision Officer before the succeeding one is laid over it. Surface to be painted to be thoroughly dry, clean and smooth, free from rust and dirt.

Laying 12 inches stoneware pipes and jointing.—1. The stoneware pipe line shall be to the alignment and gradient shown by the Officer in charge. The socket ends of pipes shall always face upstream of the flow of water.

2. The excavation of the trench for the stoneware pipe line shall be commenced at the down stream end of the pipe line and be continued up the gradient.

3. Sufficient width shall be given to the trenches to allow a space of 6 inches to 9 inches on either side of the body of the pipe so that the workmen can walk saddlewise along the trenches one foot on either side of the pipes. The bottom of the trench will be flat from side to side.

4. In obtaining the formation of the bottom of the trenches, the usual method of using sight rails and boning rods shall be adopted during the whole of the process. The sight rails shall be fixed at suitable intervals which may not be more than 50 feet apart, before the excavation is begun. The excavation shall be boned in, at least once in every 6 feet, the foot of the boning rod being set on a block of the wood of the exact thickness of the material of the pipes.

5. Under each socket, a spud of earth shall be taken out, into which the socket drops, so that the belly of the pipe beds firmly on the ground. This also will give the jointer more room to make the cement fillet joints properly.

6. When laying stoneware pipes in rock, it will be necessary to support the pipes along the whole of their length by being packed with sand or other suitable fine material which will fill in the spaces that will exist between the underside of the pipes and the uneven surface of the rock.

7. When trenches are deep and in bad ground, their sides shall be supported by suitable timbering.

8. The trenches shall not be filled in until the joints have been tested and the alignments examined and passed by the Executive Engineer.

9. The utmost care shall be taken in refilling the trenches so that no damage may be done to the pipes. The first foot of filling material immediately over and round every stoneware pipe, shall consist of the finest selected material, and unless of fine soft material, shall be lowered into the trench by pails or skips. No lump should be put round the stoneware pipe or thrown into the trenches until the pipe-line has been protected in the manner described above.

10. The remainder of the filling material shall be put in layers not exceeding 6 inches at a time.

11. In excavating trenches, the road metalling, pavement, turf, etc., forming the surface covering shall be placed on one side and preserved for reinstatement, while the subsoil shall be kept on the opposite side of the trench. The trench shall be filled up and thoroughly consolidated before the top materials are replaced.

12. As each trench is filled, the surplus earth shall at once be removed after making a suitable allowance for settlement and the surface properly restored.

13. The trench shall be kept free from water or drainage.

14. The pipes before being laid shall be thoroughly examined specially at the inside of the pipes. Cracked pipes shall altogether be rejected whether at the socket or in the body.

15. All the pipe joints shall be caulked with tarred yarn in one length for each joint, and sufficiently long to entirely surround the spigot end of the pipe. The yarn to be driven, as far as possible, into the joint by means of a suitable instrument. After the joint has been thoroughly cleaned and moistened, neat cement is to be forced into it until the whole space around the spigot, between it and the socket, is full, the cement being splayed off to form a neat fillet round the pipe.

NOTE.—The cement may require to be previously air slaked, so that there may be no risk of cracking the pipe sockets.

16. After sufficient interval has been allowed for the joints to set and before filling the trench, the joints of pipes and drains shall be proved water tight by filling the pipes with water to the level of 6 feet above the top of the highest pipe in the length to be tested, closing the ends of the sections and maintaining this water level for the period of one hour, or such further time as may be directed by the Executive Engineer.

17. The water test is made by inserting a plug at the lower end of each length and a right angled bend at the top, brought into position and made tight with clay. After the air bubbles have escaped after first filling, water is again added to completely fill the pipe. If the water level does not fall more than half an inch for 300 feet, the joints may be regarded as satisfactory.

Laying and jointing of cast iron pipes and facing slopes under 12", 18" and 24".—Excavation of trenches.—1. The trenches shall be excavated along the line as set out on the ground by the Officer in charge.

2. The depths at which the pipes are to be laid are shown in the plan. These depths widths and slopes may be varied by the Officer in charge. The trenches should have a bottom of 3 feet and side slopes of $\frac{1}{2}$: 1.

Particulars of excavation.—The officer in charge will settle the order in which the trenches are to be excavated. In forming the trenches they shall be cut so that the bottom have regular beds, and no filling in with loose soil will be permitted. Should the excavation be taken out deeper than the depth ordered, the pipes may be laid at that depth or the level brought up with earth or gravel, watered and rammed as may be directed by the officer in charge. The pipes in all instances shall be laid down on a firm foundation carefully prepared. After excavating the trench to the correct level hollows shall be cut at the required sections to receive the sockets of the pipes and these hollows shall be of sufficient depth to ensure that the barrels of the pipes shall rest throughout their entire length on the solid ground.

Observance of local blasting rulings in force.—If any excavation is in rock which requires blasting, the contractor shall observe any regulations which may be in force in the district at the time and such further regulations that the officer in charge of the work may issue for the safety of the public.

Laying and jointing pipes and specials.—Pipes to be examined and cleaned.—The pipes shall be examined before laying for flaws and cracks and shall be also thoroughly cleaned inside. The pipes, before being laid, shall be scraped and benched throughout to remove any soil or stones that may have accumulated on or inside the pipe. The inside of the socket and the outside of the spigot end of each pipe shall be carefully cleaned. In the case of small pipes, these pipes may be tilted up to remove any accumulation. The pipes shall then be laid in position, the socket ends of all pipes facing the direction from which the water is to flow, so that the water when it does flow, shall first enter the socket end of every pipe. But in steep locations, it may be necessary so to lay the pipes that the socket shall always point uphill in order to avoid drawing of joints. These cases shall be decided by the officer in charge, who, when an alteration from the general rule is required, shall give directions in writing to the contractor.

Ends of pipes to be closed on ceasing work for the day.—The open end of the last pipe in to be securely closed, on ceasing work for the day with a strong wooden plug fitting the ends of the pipes.

Careful lowering of the pipes into the trenches.—The pipes shall be carefully lowered into the trench and supported on earth in the centre, it is being left at the joints for leading. The spigot shall be truly centred in the socket. The socket shall then be caulked with not less than three laps of spun yarn, twisted into ropes of uniform thickness, packed up to the shoulder of the socket and leaving the correct depth for the lead. The laps of yarn must be all rather longer than the circumference of the socket.

No made-up pieces are to be allowed. The minimum depths for the lead will be as noted below :—

Molten lead joints.—1. For cast-iron plain spigot and socket pipes, cut pipes and other similar pipes and specials to be lead jointed, the following instructions shall be observed.

2. After the pipes are placed in correct positions for jointing, and the caulking with spun yarn has been completed as per instructions laid down in the preceding paragraph, the minimum depths for the lead jointing are as noted below :—

Diameter of pipe	Depth of lead.
6" to 12"	2"
14" to 18"	2½"

3. The pipes shall rest on the bottom of the trenches throughout their entire length of each pipe except at the socket where hollows are made to enable the jointing to be done. The pipes shall then be examined for line and level and the space left in the socket shall be filled by pouring in melted lead. This may best be done by using rubber jointing rings. When these are not available, a ring of hemp rope covered with clay shall be wrapped round the pipe at the end of the socket, leaving an opening at the top of the socket into which the lead can be poured. The hemp rope shall be supported by clay packing so as to stand the operation of lead pouring.

4. The lead used shall be the best Rangoon pig lead free from impurities and shall be purchased by the contractor from a firm approved by the Executive Engineer. The lead shall be carefully skimmed of all scale when melted in a cast-iron pot or patent melting machine. Sufficient lead shall then be taken from the pot by a ladle and run hot into the joint, and the joint filled at one running with lead flush with outside of the joint, which shall then be 'set up' by a suitable caulking tool and a 4 lb. hammer when the lead is at least one-eighth inch within the edge of the socket. The number of the joints of each class of pipe will be found in the schedule accompanying the specification. The joints of the bends, branches, tapers and sluice valves are included in the number of the joints under laying and jointing pipes. The number of joints of each description will probably vary slightly from those given in the annexed schedule. The contractor will be paid according to the number of each description actually executed. The caulking should not be carried out until 200 feet of piping in advance has been laid.

Cutting pipes.—The cost of cutting off the ends of pipes damaged and the cost of cutting sound pipes which it may be necessary to do in order to lay down the branches, bends, valves or other specials in any particular position shall be paid for at the tender rate according to the actual number of pipes of each size which it may be necessary to cut. The pipes damaged in transit shall not have their damaged portions cut off till they are actually required for use at bends, valves or other specials. It is of course impossible to state the number of each description of pipe which may require to be cut. Tenderers will bear this in mind when entering rates for cutting, viz., that the rates are to be irrespective of the number to be cut whether small or large pipes.

Laying of bends.—The net length, measured on the curve, shall be taken as the length to be paid for and the rate shall be the same as for plain pipes.

Laying of branches.—Suppose a cast iron branch to be say, a 12" × 24" branch a net length of the 12" piece (3' — 3½") will be paid for at the rate for laying a similar length of 12" plain pipes and the branch part of the net length for the 24" pipe measured from the outside of the 12" pipe.

Laying of the tapers.—The net length will be paid for at the rate for plain pipes for the largest diameter of a taper. For example, a taper of 4 feet in length 14" × 12" will be paid for as 4 feet of plain 14" plain pipe.

Laying collars.—The gross length of the collar will be paid for at the same rate as the pipes they are used to cover.

Fixing sluice valves.—1. The sluice valves to be fixed on the pipe lines shall be examined, cleaned and placed in the positions to be indicated by the officer in charge.

2. The valves shall be placed on the pipe lines in pits constructed according to drawings which will be furnished to the contractor ; the depths at which the valve is to be laid shall be increased when necessary under the written orders of the officer in charge ; the depth of concrete or masonry shall also be increased when necessary and on receipt of written orders from the officer in charge.

3. The valve shall be supported in the valve pit by the stone shown in the drawing so that no stress or strain occurs in the flange or other joints of the valve.

4. The valve shall be carefully protected from the lime or other dust by a suitable or gunny covering and the pit itself shall be cleared of lime, mortar and other refuse.

Testing joints by water pressure.—1. The pipes after being laid and jointed shall be tested by the officer in charge of the work in such lengths as seems to him desirable under the circumstances of availability of water for testing purposes. The contractor shall provide at his cost water necessary for filling the pipes and necessary labour for testing purposes.

2. Before testing is proceeded with on a length of pipes the pipes shall be covered with excavated earth to a depth of one foot above the top of every pipe but leaving a length of 18" on each side of every joint uncovered so that the joint may be inspected when under test pressure.

3. The 3 feet of each pipe uncovered by earth shall be covered with mats, gunny bags or palmyra leaves or straw kept damp so as to avoid damage to the joint by the expansion and contraction from variations of temperature.

4. The pressure which the pipes and pipe joint must stand shall be calculated as follows.

5. The testing pressure shall be equal to 50 per cent in excess of the static pressure at the lowest part of any pipe on the length which is being tested, subject to a minimum pressure of 100 feet of water and maximum pressure of 400 feet of water.

6. The testing shall be done by the officer in charge but the contractor shall provide all necessary labour at his cost for filling the length of pipes to be tested with water and for carrying on the testing operations until the length of pipes, specials and connexions are finally passed by the officer in charge.

7. The length to be tested shall be provided with two blank flanges fastened on to the usual manner by collar, bends and bolts to the end pipes or if the length to be tested shall have a sluice valve at each end, such blank flanges may be dispensed with.

8. The length of pipes to be tested shall first be filled in with water from a higher section of pipes already laid or from water obtained from a well, tank, or a water course.

9. Before the actual pressure is applied to the length of pipes under test, any air which has lodged in the length of pipes to be tested shall be got rid of by screwing on at the highest part of the length of pipes a temporary air valve or by opening a temporary stop cock or by other means as the officer in charge may direct.

10. The test pressure shall then be applied to the length of pipes under test by means of a hand power hydraulic test pump. The connexion of the test pump to the length of pipes shall either be at the union connexion provided at a blank flange or shall be at a temporary stop cock or fountain connexion as the officer in charge may in the circumstances direct.

11. The actual test shall be made by pumping water by the test pump into the length of the pipes under test until the pressure gauge on test pump shows that the test pressure as specified above has been reached.

12. The test pressure shall be maintained for a 30 minutes or for such length of time taken by the officer in charge in inspecting each joint subject to a minimum of 30 minutes.

13. When a lead joint is found to be sweating or leaking, the contractor shall again set up the lead joint by caulking it with a caulking tool and a 4 lb. hammer.

14. When a flange joint is found to be leaking, care shall be taken, that in tightening up the flanges, the neighbouring joints are not affected.

15. If the length of pipe line under test is found to be satisfactory and no leaks or sweatings are found at the pipe joints or at the joints of specials and connexions, then the length of pipe line and specials and connexions will be passed by the officer in charge.

16. But should any pipe joint, special or connexion be found to sweat or leak, the contractor shall make good at his cost such defective joint and the length of pipe line shall be again re tested by the officer in charge until all pipes, joints, specials and connexions are found to be satisfactory.

Filling in of trenches.—1. As soon as the test is completed, and the result found to be satisfactory, the trenches shall be re-filled under the orders of the officer in charge in the following manner :—

2. The earth shall be well pauned in layers not exceeding six inches in depth and watered in as the officer in charge considers necessary, the original metalling or surface earth being replaced in order, and well rammed, and the whole surface made smooth and neat. The height of the filling (including metalling) above the original surface level shall not exceed one half inch per foot of depth of trench. The contractor shall be held responsible for any subsidence in the line of the trenches, which may at any time take place before the granting of the final certificate by the officer in charge, and should the contractor fail on any occasion to attend when such subsidence occur and within 12 hours of notice in writing to fill up the subsidence after removing the surface metalling or surface earth which he shall again replace, the necessary repairs will be done by the officer in charge at the cost of the contractor. But such action of the officer in charge shall not relieve the contractor from responsibility for any loss or damage to life or property caused by such subsidence.

Disposal of surplus earth.—The surplus earth from the trenches shall be carried away to such sites as shall be fixed by the officer in charge. The cost of such carriage shall be included by the contractor in his tender rate for excavation.

Surki concrete.—The concrete used on the works shall be composed of one part mortar and 2½ parts broken stone approved by the officer in charge. The mortar shall be mixed with stone broken so as to pass a 1½-inch ring. The broken stone shall be washed before being thoroughly mixed with the mortar to the satisfaction of the officer in charge. The concrete shall be laid in 8 inch layers and well rammed with wooden rammers to the satisfaction of the officer in charge. Subsequent layers shall be added as directed, the surface of each layer being lightly picked over before a new layer is added.

Surki mortar.—Surki mortar shall be composed of 1½ part slaked lime, 3 parts of clean sharp sand and one part surki and shall be fresh ground in mortar mill. The lime, sand and surki proposed to be used by the contractor shall be submitted for approval of the officer in charge

Stone in surki mortar.—1. The stone in surki mortar shall be coursed rubble or cutstone work as will be directed by the officer in charge.

2. The stone shall be of a hard, durable, and tough quality and each stone when rebuilt into the work shall be laid on its natural quarry bed.

Cutstone.—1. Cutstone work consist of stones chisel dressed to a flat surface on all sides so as to be 6 line dressed or 4-line dressed as the officer in charge may direct. The courses need not be of the same depth but no course shall be thinner than any course below it.

2. The joints of cutstone shall not exceed ¼ inch in thickness,

Cover slabs.—Cover slabs under surface boxes shall be dressed so that they do not rock on their beds so that the surface box rests fairly and evenly on the slabs. The joints between the stones shall not admit of dirt falling into the valve pit. The slabs shall be laid dry (not bedded in mortar) on top of masonry work so that they may be easily removed and replaced when repairs to valves are necessary.

Bed stones for sluice valves.—Bed stones for sluice valves shall have their lower surface dressed true, and the upper surface cut out so as to evenly receive the bottom of the valve case.

Cement plaster.—Cement plaster shall not be less than half an inch in thickness, and shall be made from Portland cement, up to British standard specification, and shall be mixed in the proportion of one cement to two of clean sharp sand The cement shall be supplied departmentally and the cost will be recovered from the contractor at Rs. 3-14-0 per c.ft

Masonry to be kept damp.—All masonry work and cement plaster shall be kept moist till well set and all water used shall be free from salt.

Disposal of surplus pipes, specials and materials.—The contractor shall deliver store and stack all surplus pipes, specials and materials at such place as the officer in charge may in writing direct and the contractor will be paid for such work at the rate tendered by him and accepted by the officer in charge.

Re-coating pipes.—1 When pipes are received on the work spot with the coating of Angus Smith's solution damaged, that is, broken or in patches, the officer in charge of the works shall have the patches re-coated with Angus Smith's composition before the pipes are laid in the trench.

2. A quantity of the composition will be obtained with the pipes. The composition shall first be heated to 400 or 500 degrees Fahrenheit in a suitable iron cauldron and then applied while hot to the patches requiring re-coating.

3. Care shall be taken when jointing pipes that the caulking tool or hammer shall not injure the coating on any pipe but in the event of such coating being injured, fresh composition as specified above shall be applied to the injured pipe at the cost of the contractor before the trench is refilled.

4. In cases where a supply of Angus Smith's composition is not available, the following composition shall be used :—

One part coal tar.
Three parts Burgundy pitch or asphalte.
Five per cent linseed oil.

5. The tar shall be placed in a cauldron and boiled until the naphtha in it has been evaporated which will occur in a few minutes.

6. The pitch or asphalte shall be broken into pieces, the size of an egg, and shall be gradually added to the molten tar and stirred until the asphalte is dissolved in the tar.

7. The linseed oil shall then be added and well stirred into the mixture and heated until the temperature is sufficiently high.

Cleaning down the building.—The contractor shall have the building cleaned down and well scrubbed and he shall leave the whole of his completed work and surroundings in perfect order and to the satisfaction of the Executive Engineer.
